

AIMED ALLIANCE
Alliance for the Adoption of Innovations in Medicine

Hidden in Plain Sight: Accommodating Employees with Invisible Conditions

Free Webinar on Wednesday, December 13, 2017
12:00 PM to 1:00 PM ET

Individuals with invisible conditions, such as chronic migraine disorders, bipolar disorders, or chronic fatigue syndrome, face unique challenges in the workplace. Invisible conditions—those in which the symptoms are not immediately apparent to other people—may significantly limit daily activities. Yet, because they are not always obvious to the onlooker, employers may not understand the severity of the condition. In this webinar, employers can learn how to offer support to employees with invisible conditions to ensure maximum productivity, and employees can learn about their legal rights in the workplace.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

Human resources professionals
Employee assistance program directors
Individuals with invisible disabilities or health conditions
Attorneys and legal professionals
Health care providers
Caregivers and patient advocates

Join our speakers in examining invisible conditions, the potential impacts of improper treatment or accommodation, the legal landscape protecting employees, and recommendations for employers to assist employees in receiving appropriate care.

Shannon Ginnan, M.D.,
Director of Medical Affairs, Aimed Alliance;
Physician, Virginia
Integrative Health

Andy Imparato, J.D.,
Executive Director,
Association of University
Centers on Disabilities

Stacey Worthy, J.D.,
Executive Director,
Aimed Alliance

Maureen McCluskey, RN,
BSN, MA,
Health and Wellness
Disease Education
Specialist

WEBINAR TOPICS:

Invisible conditions and common misperceptions
The potential impacts of improper treatment and accommodation
The legal landscape applicable to employees with invisible conditions Recommendations to help employers address the needs of employees with invisible conditions

Click the button below to sign up

REGISTER NOW

For more information, please visit <http://www.aimedalliance.org>